

Where Do I Start When Teaching Online?

This presentation outline the steps one should take when embarking down the road to online teaching. What are best teaching practices that lead to successful students? Is it possible to have a class more engaged online than face-to-face? Where can you find assistance to make the transition to technology-enhanced teaching? These questions and more will be discussed.

Kim Holland

Distance Studies Coordinator & Instructional Designer Teaching Support Centre

Kim Holland is the coordinator and instructional designer for Distance Studies at Western. He has taught in the Geography Department of over 30 years, both face-to-face and online. He developed Western's first Distance Studies course that utilized HTML and the web.

Date: February 8th Time: 12:30pm

Place: SSC 9420

Western  Social Science